SIR MORTIMER

By MARY JOHNSTON

Author of "To Have and To Hold"

With frontispiece reproducing colors of original painting by F. C. Yohn. Eight other illustrations printed on India paper and mounted like photographs. Post 8vo,

$1.50

From "Sir Mortimer." —Copyright, 1903, by Harper & Brothers.

A romance of Elizabethan days, of uncommon power and imaginative beauty. The love of the gallant Sir Mortimer for the fair Damaris Sedley, a lady of the court, runs like a poem through a narrative alive with stirring incidents of the days of Sir Walter Raleigh, when all England loved, sang, adventured and fought in the flush of youthful power.

Readers of "To Have and To Hold" will welcome the distinct advance which Miss Johnston, already a master-hand in fiction, has made over her previous successes.

HARPER & BROTHERS, Publishers, New York

THESE three advertisements will appear in succession in a large list of daily papers throughout the country during the ten days preceding day of publication.

WHEN WILDERNESS WAS KING

JOHN WAYLAND is the hero—strong and resourceful, and equal to anything or anybody—except Toinette. As for Toinette, there is no use trying to describe her, but you will be as captivated as everyone else if you read the love story of these two high-spirited young people, worked out against a dramatic background of frontier courage and savage cruelty.

The New Book by

HENRY SETON MERRIMAN

Author of "Barlasch of the Guard," etc.

TOMASO'S FORTUNE

And Other Stories

MR. MERRIMAN left, at his death, nearly a score of short stories which possess in an unusual degree the qualities that have made his novels acceptable to a multitude of readers.

YOU WILL MAKE NO MISTAKE WITH THIS BOOK. IT IS A VERY GOOD ONE

It shows that Mr. Merriman was as much a master of the short story as he was of the novel.

THE TEST

By MARY TAPPAN WRIGHT

12mo, $1.50

A POWERFUL novel of contemporary American life by a writer of very individual and original talent. The singular intensity and power to move, shown repeatedly in "Aliens," are here at their strongest, and the situations in "The Test" are such as to call out all Mrs. Wright's exceptional literary art.

PEACE AND THE VICES

By ANNA A. ROGERS

12mo, $1.50

A NOVEL of American Navy life pleasantly relieved by a love-story of much originality. Humor, feeling, power, dramatic interest, suspense, are all here, blended in just such nicely balanced proportions as one would expect from the author of "Sweethearts and Wives."

FROM GRANDMOTHER'S TIME TO NOW

Every new improvement, every new household hint, as well as the famous receipts of Grandma's day—they are all in Marion Harland's New Complete Cook Book.

Read Mrs. John A. Logan's Letter:

Holly Hills Farm, near Hyattsville, Md.
February 3, 1904.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL CO., Indianapolis, Ind.

Dear Sirs:—Mrs. Harland's New Complete Cook Book is beyond all expression the finest thing of the kind that has ever been published in this country and perhaps in any other. It will serve as an enduring monument to Marion Harland's great service to American homes and American women.

It should be in the possession of every house-wife.

Sincerely yours, MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

The Issue

Is not the contest in the Far East. It is the issue which was decided at our own thresholds—a story of dramatic episodes with men and women of our own kind as its people. It is a Book for every American. A love story with a captivating heroine. A tale of action with straightforward, resolute men, who win their ends by clean deeds. It speaks of the chivalry and feminine charm of a day within our own recollection. It is a serious piece of work, which is going to survive a good many novels yet to come.

¶ Mr. Morgan will be remembered as the author of "John Littlejohn, of J.," published several years ago and which was a marked success. To his new book he has given not only the results of many years' study of American character and of the larger figures in history, but also careful investigation into the special events and personages involved by his fiction.

¶ THE ISSUE will appeal to women by its love story; and it will hold men for the same reason that the most conspicuous among recent American historical novels gained men readers by the tens of thousands.

MR. MORGAN

¶ We will publish THE ISSUE early in March. It will be illustrated with drawings by George A. Williams. It will be bound attractively. The advance demand for the book indicates its immediate success.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY are soon to issue a clever book entitled "The Second Mrs. Jim," by "Stephen Conrad," a story of a shrewd, middle-aged spinster, who becomes the second wife of a prosperous farmer with two boys, and relates the domestic tangles that ensued and their final satisfactory undoing. The book is full of quaint philosophy and humorous sayings.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. will bring out this month "The Issues of Life," by Mrs. John Van Vorst, joint author of "The Woman Who Toils," discussing "race suicide" and the woman who does not toil; "The Gordon Elopement," a romance of a Stocktonian flavor by Miss Carolyn Wells and H. P. Taber; "South America," a popular illustrated history of the South American republics, Cuba and Panama, by Hezekiah Butterworth; "The Great Adventurer," a novel about the promoter of a great trust, by Robert Shackleton; and "How to Do Beadwork," a manual of all sorts of this work, by Miss Mary White, author of the very successful little book, "How to Make Baskets."

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. publish to-day a book of essays and lectures by the late Thomson J. Hudson, entitled "The Evolution of the Soul." The volume is along the lines of Dr. Hudson's famous "Law of Psychic Phenomena" and "Law of Mental Medicine," and will round out the hundred thousandth of his published works. They will issue on the 26th inst. Randall Parrish's romance of the Illinois country, "When Wilderness Was King." It is to be illustrated in full color from paintings by the Kinneys, and will be uniform in appearance with their successful spring book of last year, "The Ward of King Canute." They will publish about the same time Miss Margaret Morley's new book, "Little Mitchell," which deals in the most delightfully entertaining way with the life of a mountain squirrel. The episode is, of course, an actual one, as Miss Morley had the pleasure of an intimate acquaintance with "Little Mitchell," who gets his name from Mount Mitchell, in North Carolina, where he was born.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 17th inst. a new volume of essays by James Huneker, which are in the line of the author's "Mezzotints in Modern Music," rather than his later volume, "Melomaniacs." There are nine contributions, all giving evidence of the writer's originality, breadth of knowledge and pungency in expression. The essays are entitled "Richard Strauss," to whom the volume is dedicated; "Parsifal—a Mystic Melodrama," "Nietzsche, the Rhapsodist," "Literary Men Who Loved Music," such as Turgenieff, Balzac, Daudet and George Moore; "Anarchs of Art," "The Beethoven of French Prose," (Flaubert;) "Verdi and Boito," "The Eternal Feminine," and "After Wagner—What?" On the same date will be published two novels, forming the vanguard of the Scribner spring fiction. One is Mary Tappan Wright's "The Test," the other Anna A. Rogers's "Peace and the Vices." Mrs. Wright's story has all the intensity and power to move shown repeatedly in her "Aliens," and the situations are such as to call out her exceptional literary art to its fullest capacity. Miss Rogers's novel is a story of American navy life which involves a love motive of much originality and power. Humor, feeling, power, dramatic interest, suspense are blended in such nicely balanced proportions as one would expect from the author of "Sweethearts and Wives." They will publish on the 26th inst. a posthumous volume of fourteen short stories by Henry Seton Merriman, entitled "Tomaso's Fortune." These stories are said to possess in an unusual degree the qualities that have made Merriman's novels acceptable to a multude of readers. The book is a regular, not a net publication, as has been erroneously stated.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Dr. Rainsford is the well-known rector of St. George's Church, near Stuyvesant Square. Twenty years ago this was a dying church, abandoned by its wealthy members, and shunned by the poor. How Dr. Rainsford raised it to the point of being, as it is now, one of the most popular churches on the East side, is part of the story he tells in this volume. In addition is an account of his father's family, his own early life in Ireland, his church work in Canada, etc.

"Dr. E: A. Steiner, who occupies the professorship of Applied Christianity in Iowa College, spent several months in Russia at the request of 'The Outlook Co.' and under its commission for the express purpose of obtaining material for this book. As appears in his opening chapter he renewed at Yasnaya Polyana, Tolstoy's residence, an acquaintance begun many years ago. Dr. Steiner not only had the opportunity of getting close to the personal and individual side of his subject and of discussing with the great Russian writer and teacher his life and work, he brings also to his task a study and appreciation of Tolstoy's character and theories extending over a long period."—Introductory Note.

This novel relates the story of the religious movement of the Middle Ages known as "The children's crusade," which lost to the homes of France and Germany nearly one hundred thousand children. Interwoven with this account is a romance of a gentleman adventurer, fallen into evil ways, whose love for one of the child knights whom he rescues from the pitiful fate of the main company and returns to home and inheritance proves the means of his own redemption and ultimate happiness.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 12, 1904.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

WHERE THE SHOE PINCHED.

THE gentleman whose communication criticising the net system we print elsewhere, in rounding up with the withering conclusion that he makes, overlooks a fact that most critics in his class overlook, namely, that the reform was instituted to save the entire "tottering" booktrade, not only one part of it.

If our esteemed correspondent will run his eye back ten or twenty years and review the ranks of the publishing and bookselling trade, what will he find? During that period he will find that a great house without warning dropped out of the ranks, and disposed of what every outsider considered a splendid and profitable line of publications to one of its colleagues. Two of the largest concerns in the country, their foundations seemingly resting upon bed rock, and promising to last for centuries, fall to the earth and face ruin. Overnight a house that appeared to be doing a safe and prosperous business comes to grief. Other houses are known to have been struggling for years to keep out of bankruptcy, and the fact that they have not gone down is due either to clever financiering or because their creditors cannot afford to let them go down. Again and again a young concern that entered the publishing business with great ambitions and high hopes is led to "execution," or quietly puts up its shutters, and reenters a less ideal but more profitable business.

If our correspondent will turn to the ranks of booksellers, what does he find? Where twenty years ago he would have found two hundred wide-awake, enterprising booksellers he will now find ten or, at the most, a "baker's dozen." In other words, while in this great country of ours he may find 20,000 persons who, besides other wares, occasionally sell books, he will probably not discover above three hundred booksellers. And even these three hundred, or most of them, have "an anchor out to windward."

It were idle now to try to fix the blame for this condition. It certainly was not due to the profitableness of publishing and bookselling as commercial ventures. Naturally, the bookseller suffered first; but as the publisher's sources of distribution became clogged and threatened with decay, and as, furthermore, year by year, the cost of production increased and the margin of profits decreased, the publisher faced the fate that had overtaken the bookseller, and he was therefore obliged to take measures to protect himself as well as his agents.

In this whole question, the critics of the attempt of the booktrade to protect itself against ruin have assumed very much the attitude that the opponents of international copyright took when they argued that cheap books were their inalienable right, and paying the author a minor matter. Our opponents in these matters might as well ask to fix their own prices upon the stationery and other apparatus used in the library or by the public in general. The author in these latter days has come into his own—perhaps some of them may be overpaid, considering the intellectual effort involved—and shall the publisher and bookseller not be worthy of his hire!

After all, does the much-maligned bookseller make so much as has been claimed in selling books? On fiction published at $1.50 list and sold at $1.08 retail he receives a discount of 40 per cent; that is, he pays 90 cents for each copy, unless he buys an extra large quantity, when he gets the book for a few cents less. At that rate he makes 18 cents gross sales profit, which is 16 2-3 per cent. of the selling price, or about 8½ per cent. less than it costs the average bookseller to do the business. On a $1.50 novel he gives the librarian a discount of one-third, making between ten and twelve cents on the transaction. On the net books, and on special books, the average discount is rarely over twenty-five per cent., of which the bookseller gives up ten per cent. to his library customer. If the bookseller were absolutely protected, and not obliged to give a discount to any bookbuyer, he would just about make enough to pay the actual cost of doing business, including a moderate, by no means adequate, compensation for his own services. And if the publisher would still further reduce the price of his books he might be worse off than the bookseller.

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' COPYRIGHT LEAGUE.

THE secretary of The American Publishers' Copyright League, Mr. George Haven Putnam, takes occasion to call the attention of the publishing trade to the aims and objects of the League in the following circular, dated March 1:

The American Publishers' Copyright League was instituted in 1886, its organization constituting practically a continuation of the earlier Publishers' Copyright Association. The general purpose of the League was to give consideration to the interests of authors and publishers in the protection of literary property, and to take immediate action in securing the enactment by Congress of an international copyright measure, the work in behalf of which had been begun as far back as 1837.

The international provisions of the present copyright statute were secured by the bill of March, 1891. During the thirteen years since that date it has, however, been found that continued watchfulness and frequent action were required not only for the purpose of preserving the international features of the present statute, but also to protect domestic copyright against so-called "amendments," which would have had undesirable and unsatisfactory results. It has also proved important to secure the enactment from time to time of certain amendments to the statute for the better protection of the producers of literary property. The Executive Committee of the League have utilized the services of the secretary and of its counsel for such action as was required in Washington for these purposes. Further work in this direction will be required before a copyright statute can be secured consistent in its provisions and satisfactory in its working. For the supervision of this work the maintenance of the Copyright League is important.

The League has recently published a monograph, (copies of which are at the service of its members,) presenting "Opinions on questions of copyright and on the interpretation of the copyright statute of the United States, as given by the Solicitor General, the Register of Copyrights and the counsel of the League." This monograph includes also a record of the bills introduced during the past thirteen years for the amendment of the copyright statute, and of the disposition made of these bills. The secretary of the League, in co-operation with its associate counsel, Arthur S. Hamlin, Esq., now has in preparation a more elaborate monograph which will present a summary of copyright cases and decisions, American and European, since 1891, affecting the interests of authors, publishers, and others having to do with literary property. This will be published in regular course for the use of the general public, but copies will be sold to members of the League at a special price.

The members of the League are at liberty to make application, through the secretary, to the counsel of the League, Stephen H. Olin, Esq., for opinions regarding the interpretation of the copyright statute, or the effect of decisions of the Solicitor General or of opinions of the Register of Copyrights.

Publishers of books, music, and works of art, and dealers in books, music and works of art are eligible for membership in the League. Each firm may be represented at the meetings of the League by any partner delegated for the purpose.

Representatives of English publishing houses which are carrying on business in this country are eligible for membership.

The annual dues are ten dollars.

FIGHT FOR NEWS STAND FRANCHISE IN NEW YORK.

OWING to the opposition that has sprung up on all sides, members of the New York Board of Aldermen declare that there is no probability of favorable action being taken on the resolution offered a week ago by Alderman Wentz, of Brooklyn, granting a franchise for a nominal consideration for the erection and maintenance of news stands under all elevated railroads.

The resolution names Charles B. Dana as the grantee, but he turns out to be merely a clerk with the law firm of Griggs, Baldwin & Baldwin, and is acting for a corporation which has not as yet come out into the open on the matter. The resolution calls for compensation at the rate of $5000 a year only, and if granted would give control of 1044 news stands and put about 3000 newsdealers out of business. At the same time it would deprive the city of about $625,000 in license fees during the twenty-five years of the proposed grant.

Alderman Wentz said he did not know what was back of the resolution, and introduced it merely at the request of a friend, who thought that the provision of furnishing a city directory at each stand and having a fire, ambulance and police call there would be a good thing for the city. At a meeting held later Mr. Wentz announced that as far as he was concerned the resolution could die a natural death.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN TYPESETTING IN THE 18TH CENTURY.

BY CHARLES WELSH.

A COMPARISON of the reprints by Isaiah Thomas, of Worcester, of the books for children published in London by John Newbery, reveals the fact that the alert, practical American mind began very soon to discard the peculiarities of the earlier English printers in the matter of capitalization, punctuation and the use of italics.

Perhaps I should have said the "middle" instead of the "earlier" English printers—for the first, the earliest printed books were models of simplicity in typesetting. When printing became more general and printing offices multiplied, many were more or less poorly equipped, and running out of "sorts" they had recourse to all kinds of vagaries to fill up blanks. These, as Mr. De Vinne has pointed out, have been copied by ignorant printers of our own day, as cachets of excellence in the typesetting art! They may well study the methods of Isaiah Thomas in the little books to which I refer.

I have before me my facsimile reproduction of the Newbery edition of "Goody Two Shoes" of 1766, which was made by photography in 1882. The first edition was printed in 1765, but the types used for the 1766 edition were the same. Before me also is a copy of the reprint by Isaiah Thomas—"the first Worcester edition," published in 1787. It is clean and fresh as it came from the binder's hands. It is printed from the same font of types as the Newbery editions of 1765 and 1766, for at that time type was invariably imported from the other side. But the Thomas edition is twice as easy to read as that of Newbery.

First: Because the English printer had scattered capitals over his page as though he had shaken them out of a pepper-pot. Thomas used them only for proper names and in beginning sentences and paragraphs.

Second: Because Thomas does not copy the English printer's silly trick of italicizing all the proper names.

Third: Because Thomas abandoned the unnecessary and unsightly signature marks; the retention of the catch words at the end of each page of course made the signature marks unnecessary, but the conservative English printer gave both!

Some may say that Thomas did this from motives of economy—not wishing to import the sorts necessary to follow the English method. It was a blessed parsimony which saved the eyes of the American children into whose hands the little book fell from the fatigue which is the inevitable result of using the English edition.

TO INVESTIGATE THE CAUSE OF HIGH PRICE OF PAPER.

Representative Lilley, of Connecticut, on the 7th inst. introduced a resolution to investigate the causes of the present high prices of the white paper made in the United States, especially the paper used by the newspapers.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, of which Representative Payne, of New York, is chairman. Powerful influences will be exerted upon the committee to procure some relief from the demands of the combination of paper manufacturers. One of the remedies which has been suggested is that the Ways and Means Committee report a bill which will remove the duty from Canadian paper pulp.

SCHOOL BOOKS FOR NEW YORK.

The annual examination of the latest text books for use in the schools of Greater New York will soon begin. The list of text books now contains 1509 titles, from which the school principals choose works for their pupils to study. Last year forty experts were at work examining text books.

This year fewer books have been sent in, and it is understood that no books written by teachers or by officials of the Board of Education have been submitted.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE—ANNUAL MEETING.

The March dinner of The Booksellers' League, held at the Aldine Association rooms, on the evening of the 9th inst., was not as largely attended as usual. Immediately after the coffee had been served the annual business meeting and election of officers was held, the secretary first reading the following:

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MANAGERS.

To the Members of The Booksellers' League.

Gentlemen: Your President and Board of Managers take pleasure in presenting their annual report as follows:

The Booksellers' League at the beginning of its tenth year is in excellent condition as to membership, the present number being one hundred and thirty-four. This is an increase in membership over that of the previous year.

Your Board has been active, holding frequent and well attended meetings, and our thanks are due to the several firms who have courteously tendered their offices for our use.

The past year marks the inauguration of the "Roll Call," which has proved very popular and instructive, bringing forward from our ranks many bright speakers and good talkers otherwise too timid and retiring to volunteer. The subjects have been as follows: At the April dinner, "Which is the better salesman, one who supplies intelligently the demands of his customer, or one who creates a demand in his customer and then supplies it?" It was decided in favor of the salesman who creates the demand. At the October meeting the question was, "Would a school for booksellers be desirable and practicable?" This brought out response from home and abroad that proved the interest and success of the Roll Call, and, what is more to the purpose, the interest of the trade at large in the work of the League.

It has been suggested that an evening could well be spent listening to addresses from some of our members upon subjects in which they are specially interested and upon which they are capable of talking. In the past some of our members have spoken to us most entertainingly. Might it not be well to volunteer?

During the year past we have had some very interesting speakers as guests. In March we listened to Harry De Windt and Joaquin Miller. De Windt described a perilous overland trip from Paris to New York, its object being to see if a railroad connecting these two cities was a possibility, while Mr. Miller spoke in favor of thin and convenient books instead of the heavy and bulky ones so often seen at present.

At the April dinner Charles Battell Loomis gave readings from several of his popular books, and T. J. Vivian told of some of his amusing experiences as a reporter.

Our May dinner was made a Ladies' Night, which was a great success. In addition to the ladies we had for guests Simeon Ford, who gave some amusing experiences of his career as an author. William Eleroy Curtis gave an interesting account of life in Turkey and affairs in Macedonia; while the graphic impersonation of Abraham Lincoln as portrayed by Benjamin Chapin was something marvellous. We were also entertained by Mrs. V. M. Coryell, a violinist of no mean ability.

The October dinner was devoted to a Roll Call, as previously mentioned. In November W. J Long, author of various nature books, told us many wonderful things in his experiences with wild animals.

The January dinner was made notable by the presence of Francis J. Bellamy, who took for his subject the "Books People Buy," and Walter H. Page, the well-known publisher, who spoke especially on bookselling. A discussion was started by F. N. Doubleday in regard to the sale of subscription books in large quantities through the book stores. The discussion became general, and much that was interesting was brought out.

The February dinner was the annual banquet, and there was a goodly representation of members. The guests were Norman H. Hapgood, the well-known journalist, who spoke upon the "Relations of Journalism to Literature;" the Rev. Merle St. Croix Wright, who spoke from the viewpoint of the general public, and counselled publishers on the ethics of their calling; James Barnes, an old friend, who told amusing stories; Irving Bacheller, who spoke upon the tone of books, and William Alexander Linn, author of "Greeley's Life," etc., who spoke reminiscently of his connection with the New York Tribune and the New York Evening Post as a reporter. We were also entertained with music, both vocal and instrumental, by Warren Darling and Messrs. Brogan and Gedney.

The report of the Employment Bureau shows that this department, conducted quietly and faithfully for a number of years by C. E. Bonnell, continues to help all those who, in the League or out, make application to obtain good positions. Employers, too, are benfited. The report is as follows:

REPORT OF THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Applications for positions	56
Applications for Clerks, Porters, Shipping Boy, etc.	52
Received from Applicants	$3.50

I am not able to say how many positions were procured through me, but some were that were not paid for and I am not able to place them, perhaps eight or ten. The majority of the applicants were not asked to pay, or did not have the amount.

C. E. Bonnell.

The Treasurer's report is most encouraging, showing a larger balance on hand at the end of the year than at the beginning.

The report is as follows:

REPORT OF TREASURER.

Cash on hand, March 7, 1903	$220.48
Cash received for extra dinner tickets	26.00
Cash proceeds of Ladies' Night	105.43
Cash proceeds 9th Annual Banquet.	244.50
Cash received for dues, etc.	630.35
		$1,226.76

EXPENSES.

March, April, May, October, November, January and 9th Annual Banquet	$821.70
Bills for printing, postage, etc.	53.19
Salary to Treasurer	25.00	$899.89
Cash on hand, March 1st, 1904		$326.87

W. H. Parker, Treasurer.

It has been decided that to arouse interest in securing new members gold buttons shall be awarded, a button for every five new members brought in. The supply of buttons is limited, and it is hoped that the edition will soon be exhausted and that our membership will be greatly increased.

Respectfully submitted,
Francis Gilman, Secretary.

The election of officers followed. To succeed Cass Richardson as president, Theodore E. Schulte, of the American Baptist Publication Society, was nominated and unanimously elected. A vote by ballot was taken to elect successors to the six retiring members of the Board of Managers—Messrs. W. J. Kelly, T. E. Schulte, W. G. Parker, C. E. Butler, S. F. McLean and J. Macdonald—and resulted, as announced later in the evening, in the choice of Messrs. C. L. Bowman, C. E. Butler, J. Macdonald, S. F. McLean, W. G. Preston and Cass Richardson.

DO PUBLIC LIBRARIES HELP OR HINDER THE SALE OF BOOKS?

The retiring president retained the chair during the evening, and after announcing the topic for discussion, "Do Public Libraries Help or Hinder the Sale of Books?" introduced as the first speaker Arthur E. Bostwick, of the New York Public Library, who is chairman of the committee of the American Library Association on relations with the booktrade. Mr. Bostwick said, in substance: "If, as we are told, the library is responsible for taking the bread out of the mouths of poor booksellers, then the institution which I represent must be responsible for a great deal of famine, for it last year distributed books to about 3,000,000 readers. Yet in thus distributing an average of one book a year to every inhabitant of Greater New York a library does not go far in actual book distribution. It is only the distribution of samples." He likened the work of a library to the distribution of samples of a commercial commodity by agents which results in increased sales, and concluded: "It is the belief of the librarians that they have been arousing interest in literature. The great increase of reading is entirely due to accessions to the ranks of readers; thousands of people are reading who would not have read some years ago. Has the public library had anything to do with arousing their interest and recruiting them? It may not be possible to settle these questions definitely, but we librarians think we know the answers."

Charles Alexander Nelson, reference librarian at Columbia University and a member of the League said that he spoke from a midway position, having been trained as a bookseller. He said, in part: "The private bookbuyer is not less a bookbuyer because he is a member of a circulating library. It has been the same in machinery, where with every improvement workingmen have cried out that the bread was being taken from their mouths, yet in the end there was more work for all of them. Libraries ultimately increase bookbuying by increasing book reading. Complaints to the contrary are too frequently made by persons who have not given the matter sufficient attention. Before the establishment of free public libraries there were hosts of small circulating libraries in the book stores—the booksellers certainly did not put them there to hurt their trade. In 1899 the New York Mail and Express made a canvass of the publishing houses, which brought out the opinion of the leading houses that the library is a help rather than a hindrance to the sale of books." Mr. Nelson read statements in support of this view from leading English librarians and American publishers.

John A. Holden presented the opposite side of the case. "Booksellers must approach the question necessarily from the commercial standpoint," said he. "The truth is, we are in business for wealth as well as recreation. The bookseller is handicapped by the free circulation of books, since many of his customers who have money seize the opportunity to save on their reading. We have an analogous case in the medical profession, which is at heart antagonistic to free dispensaries, free clinics, etc., not because such service is provided for the needy poor, but because so many who can afford to pay are free patients. If public libraries were confined to those for reference and to supplying reading matter free to those who positively have not the means to purchase there would be no doubt as to their relation to the bookseller, but when they lend out ad libitum the bookseller has good reason to doubt if they help his business. We all repeatedly meet in our shops people who come to look over books and calmly tell us they belong to this or that library, and are 'just making a list.' At such times the bookseller is not enthusiastic about the library promoting anything for him. It is all very well to promote the habit of reading, but when you make the means of satisfying that taste so cheap and plentiful the spirit of bookbuying is substantially submerged."

George Watson Cole stated his belief that public libraries help the sale of books They do this by being themselves enormously great buyers of books. The aggregate number of volumes in public libraries in the United States, which was about 2,200,000 in 1850, grew slowly to 11,500,000 in 1875, but after the awakening of library interest in 1876 increased rapidly to 33,000,000 in 1895, nearly 200 per cent., and most rapidly of all to 44,500,000 in 1900, or 35 per cent. in five years; and it is probably a conservative estimate that the number is growing at the rate of 3,000,000 volumes a year. The number of libraries is growing as well as the amount of endowments. Secondly, public libraries encourage the sale of books by cultivating and fostering the reading habit. "No one who has become an habitual reader is content to read only such books as can be procured at the public library if he has the means to buy them. There is no doubt among librarians, and I believe many booksellers also share the same view, that many books are purchased by the patrons of libraries from their having first seen them in the library. I think publishers and booksellers have failed to appreciate the great value of the public library as an advertising medium. It is the reading public far more than newspaper criticisms or advertisements that determines the popularity of a book." In conclusion Mr. Cole read a number of replies he had received from librarians in answer to an inquiry identical with that under discussion, all of which agreed in the opinion that public libraries help the sale of books.

An amusing document in scroll form, taking the booksellers' side and signed "Pisistratus, the first librarian (or bookseller)," was read by the secretary. The discussion was then continued informally, as follows:

C. E. Butler. All that I could say has been said by the librarians.

C. A. Burkhardt. The library no doubt cultivates a desire for reading, and in a measure for the ownership of books such as works of reference and standard authors; such, however, are mostly subscription books, and the bookseller does not benefit thereby, while in the case of fiction and popular books of the day the library is a direct competitor of the bookseller. The bookseller does not benefit from the purchases of the libraries, because they are in a great measure supplied by the publishers and jobbers at the same trade prices charged the booksellers. The public library—like the dispensary—should be for the poor only. There is no reason why it should be supported by public funds to the detriment of the bookseller. In my estimation booksellers' sales would be largely increased if libraries did not exist. I will close with an epitaph:

"Here lies the body of a poor bookseller,
He was a public benefactor and a good fellow;
But led such a damnable life as a hack
He certainly will not want to come back."

A. C. Lawrence. I believe most emphatically that public libraries are of great assistance to the bookseller. I think they educate the public. Lots of people who would read only daily papers go to the libraries and are educated up to the reading of books. Sales increase and thereby the libraries support the booksellers.

C. F. Cutter. We read in Boswell's Johnson that over 150 years ago this same tangle was on. Samuel Johnson in 1766 wrote to the Oxford Press about booksellers' rates, returns and misfortunes. The booktrade has always been a missionary trade, lifting up and ennobling people as no other trade does, and therein has always been at a disadvantage.

C. A. Nelson. It is the word from mouth to mouth that gets people into the reading habit—they first get the books from the libraries. The libraries cannot supply the demand. In the Polish districts of this city they cannot get enough copies of biographies of Lincoln and our other American statesmen.

F. Gilman. Some customers, if a book is over 75 cents net, do not buy, but say they will get it in a library. Are we in the book business as missionaries or to sell books?

S. F. McLean. I know of a prominent clergyman who has given up buying fiction and joined the Booklovers' Library. There is a good deal to be said on both sides. I confess the libraries have helped me a good deal; I have been selling second-hand books to them very largely in the past two years.

W. H. Parker. This question hinges on the question whether people like to spend money or not. As long as there are public libraries some people will not spend money for books—it is against their nature.

C. E. Bowman. While the public library may to-day hinder a bookseller from selling a copy of a book, it may be the means of his selling the same customer the entire works of that author later on. Few people buy many books if they are not booklovers. The public library helps to make booklovers. I believe the public library really hinders booksellers from selling to persons who buy one book only at a time, but if our trade were made up of customers of this kind most of us would soon have to go out of business. I think the public library helps to make home-library builders, and the home-library builder is the valuable customer of every bookseller.

C. A. Montgomery. Years ago people had lots of room for private libraries, and bought books for that purpose. To-day, in a large city like New York, with small apartments, it is a question of getting room for books. It seems to me this is one point that will drive people to the public libraries and make them cease to be bookbuyers.

A rising vote on the merits of the question was then called for, and though sentiment was pretty evenly divided, a majority appeared to believe that public libraries do not hinder the sale of books. The vote would no doubt have been more decidedly for the affirmative had there been a clearer understanding of the question by a number present who interpreted the question to mean "do public libraries help or hinder the sale of books" through the bookseller. On the question as put, most of the members were satisfied that the public libraries did encourage reading, though they were not quite so certain whether they increased the bookseller's business.

Votes of thanks were extended to the retiring president for his services in behalf of the League, to the secretary for the faithful manner in which he had filled his office during the year, and to the speakers of the evening. The meeting then adjourned with the new president, Mr. Schulte, in the chair.

THE BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

As a matter of record, and correcting the statement made last week concerning the present existence of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, we have received information that the affairs of the association were definitely wound up about eight months ago. There remained about twenty members, including the founder and treasurer, Joseph Vogelius, the original president, Charles T. Dillingham, John A. Holden, vice-president, the secretary, W. B. Ketcham, Charles A. Burkhardt and several others of the Board of Trustees, who, after paying all outstanding claims and debts, divided the remaining funds, amounting to about $4 per capita. Thus went out of existence one of the most helpful organizations ever known in the booktrade in this country. During its career of about seventeen years it paid to its beneficiaries upwards of $100,000 at an average cost of about twelve dollars a year. In a number of cases the association relieved immediate want and in others relieved distress. While it does not seem possible that, under later restrictions of the State insurance law, a co-operative benefit society could survive, it would nevertheless have been practicable, with some modifications, to continue the association if the majority of its members had been more patient and willing to make some sacrifice to bridge over an unforeseen emergency that would not have been likely to occur again, and against which proper safeguards might have been taken. But, unfortunately, owing to the alarming reports of a "yellow" trade journal, the majority of the members stampeded and the small number that remained became disheartened, and so proceeded to wind up the association as soon as the necessary legal steps could be taken.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

The fourth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association will be held again in New York City, instead of at St. Louis, as was suggested at the close of the annual convention in 1903. In order to make it possible for a larger number of members than usual to attend the convention the date has been set for an earlier day—May 18. It is hoped thus to avoid many of the school and college commencements that have hitherto detained many members of the Association who desired to attend. It is expected that the Booksellers' League and the Booksellers of New York will co-operate with the American Booksellers' Association to make the social feature as splendid a success as was that of last year.

OBITUARY NOTES.

James M. Woodford, for twenty-five years with the Fleming H. Revell Company, died at his home in Chicago, February 22, after a short illness. He was fifty-nine years old, and had been connected with the booktrade in Chicago for forty-three years. With but one exception, this is the longest record of continuous service in the Chicago booktrade. Beginning in 1860 with Tomlinson Bros., three years later he went with W. G. Holmes, and in 1878 began his service with Mr. Revell. Mr. Woodford was very popular with his business associates, and the religious booktrade of Chicago will miss him for years to come.

Robert Lutz, journalist, publisher and bookseller, died in Stuttgart, Württemberg, January 31. Mr. Lutz was born in 1849, in Heilbronn, and began his career as bookseller in the second-hand book business of Liesching & Co., in Stuttgart. Later he was in the employ of Heckenhauer, in Tübingen, Deighton, Bell & Co., Cambridge, and Georg & Co., Geneva. After the Franco-Prussian war, in which he received his commission as lieutenant, he became editor of the Bremen Weserzeitung, then of the Hannoverischer Courier, the Allgemeine Zeitung of Hildesheim, and of the historic Schwäbische werkur of Stuttgart. In 1885 he established himself as publisher in Stuttgart. He soon made a specialty of educational literature, and devoted considerable attention to the popularization in Germany of American literature in excellent German translations. Among the American writers whose works he undertook to introduce to the German public are those of Mark Twain, Frank R. Stockton, F. Marion Crawford, George W. Cable, Mary E. Wilkins, Anna Katharine Green and others.

THE REV. WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON MURRAY, who, after he wrote a number of stories of life in the Adirondacks, came to be known as "Adirondack" Murray, died on the 3d inst at Guilford, Conn., where he was born April 26, 1840. Mr. Murray was pastor of Congregational churches in Washington, Greenwich and Meriden, Conn., also of the Park Street Congregational Church in Boston. He published a number of volumes of story and adventures, among them "Adventures in the Wilderness," "Adirondack Tales," "Canadian Idyls," "How Deacon Tubman Kept New Year's," "Daylight Land," "The Doom of Mamelons, a Tale of the Saguenay," "Busted Ex-Texan," "Cones for the Camp Fire," "How J. Norton, Trapper, Kept Christmas," "Lake Champlain and Its Shores," "John Norton's Thanksgiving," and "Mystery of the Woods." Besides these he published several volumes of sermons, and a book entitled " The Perfect Horse." Owing to his interest in horses and other outside interests he disagreed with his church. For a time he held independent meetings in Music Hall. Then he travelled and lectured for a number of years. His best known lectures were on "Deacons" and "Buddhism." His later years were chiefly spent on his homestead at Guilford.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LIBRARIES AND THE NET SYSTEM.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: Your temperate editorial of February 20 on libraries and the net-price system implies that an increased cost of production, (which by a curious coincidence would seem to have become operative at the same moment as the net price system,) has necessitated an advance in the prices of books. Granting this, the net price system, nevertheless, discriminates against the public library. Let us assume that the book formerly listed at $1.50 must now bear a price of $1.35 net. The individual pays $1.35 for the book he formerly purchased for $1.20, an increase of 12½ per cent. The library has to pay $1.22 for the book formerly purchased for $1 or less, an increase of at least 22 per cent. An arrangement, dictated arbitrarily by the American Publishers' Association, which compels public educational institutions to contribute nearly twice as much as the individual buyer toward the support of the tottering bookseller is certainly unjust. X.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

THE author of "Ghostly Colloquies," published by D. Appleton & Co., in 1856, is Frederic Townsend. W. P. GLENNEY.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—W. E. C. Harrison & Sons have reopened a book and stationery store at 748 and 750 West Baltimore Street.

BALTIMORE, MD.—John H. Saumenig & Co. desire to acknowledge through the columns of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY their appreciation of the sympathy expressed by the entire trade of their loss in the great conflagration. Their stock was fully insured, and they have located at 225 Park Avenue, within a few blocks of their former store, and business is being conducted as usual in all its branches. They are receiving great encouragement from their many friends in the banking and commercial business and the private schools and colleges of the city and State.

BLOOMINGTON, MD.—J. A. Dougherty, bookseller, has been succeeded by McPheeters & Carmichael.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The business of the Winona Publishing Co., organized and opened up last May, has been so satisfactory and the trade increased so rapidly that they have established agencies in San Francisco, Indianapolis and Winona Lake, and have just opened up an eastern agency at No. 25 East Twenty-second Street, New York City. The New York agency is in charge of Louis E. Turk, business agent for the Board of Publication of the Reformed Church, and arrangements have been made with Joseph Hobby to represent them on the road. All orders from the trade east of the Alleghany Mountains should be addressed to the New York office, where they will receive prompt attention.

LARAMIE, WYO.—Sayer Hansen has bought the Laramie Book Company's store of Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson. Harry Hansen is now in charge of the business. Mr. Hansen will keep the name Laramie Book Company. He has been elected president, Mrs. Mary Hansen vice-president, and Harry Hansen, secretary and treasurer and manager.

NASHUA, N. H.—Edward Charpentier has opened a bookstore at the corner of Palm and Hollis Streets.

NEWTON, N. J.—C. K. Foster, bookseller, has sold out to H. C. McCafferty.

NEW YORK CITY.—The sheriff is in possession of William Beverly Harrison's store.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Southern Book Co. has been incorporated, to manufacture books, stationery, etc. Capital stated as $100,000.

NEW YORK CITY.—The A. Wessels Company has bought the publications of B. W. Dodge & Co. Mr. B. W. Dodge has joined the corporation of A. Wessels Company.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Franklin Book Company is reported to be in the hands of a receiver.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—Frank C. Marston, bookseller, has been succeeded by the George B. French Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Haas & Young, booksellers, have dissolved partnership.

VICTOR, COLO.—E. M. Ovren, of the Ovren Book and Stationery Store, has bought out the stock of J. Henri.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

JACQUES ROSENTHAL, of Munich, has in hand a supplement to Hain and Copinger, by Professor Reichling. The first part, including about three hundred incunabula unknown to these authorities, with many corrections, will be published this month, but only a small number of copies will be printed.

EDGAR CROSBY SMITH, Foxcroft, Me., has compiled and privately printed 100 copies of a bibliography of the maps of the State of Maine, including all the maps published, excepting those that have appeared in school geographies. (32 p. 16°, with reproductions of original pen-drawn manuscript maps of 1815.)

THE "A. L. A. Catalog," which is being prepared by the Publishing Board of the American Library Association with the co-operation of the Library of Congress and upwards of 250 associates, representing leading colleges, universities, libraries and professions, will probably be ready early in May this year. This is a revision and enlargement of the "A. L. A. Catalog" issued at the time of the Chicago World's Fair. It will contain titles of 8000 volumes, as against 5000 of the earlier list, and is much more comprehensive in extent and in form.

E. MARCHMONT, 58 Newington Butts, London, has published No. 1 of v. 1 of the quarterly publication "London Book Auctions," of which we gave an advance notice some time ago. This part records 3171 of the more notable books disposed of in eleven sales held at the auction rooms of Sotheby, Hodgson, Christie, Manson & Woods, and Puttick & Simpson, from June 29 to July 22, 1903, giving the prices realized, also explanatory notes as to the condition of some of the books, and in many cases the name of the purchaser. Each sale is recorded separately, alphabetically, but the titles are numbered consecutively and made accessible by an author index. The work is compiled by Frederick Marchmont, recently editor of "Sale Records," and is a useful reference work for the bookseller. (111+26 p. 16°, pap., 75 c.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

BRENTANO'S are about to publish a tragedy in blank verse on the subject of Tristan and Isolde, by Louis K. Anspacher.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. have in press a new edition of "The Autobiography of a Thief," "recorded" by Hutchins Hapgood.

FROM a recent report of the extraordinary sales of German books, we learn that Scheffel's "Ekkehard" has thus far enjoyed a sale of 290,000 copies.

JAMES POTT & Co. are about to bring out a timely volume entitled "Impressions of Japan," by G. H. Rittner, illustrated by a series of photographs taken by the author.

JOHN LANE has in preparation "The Rat Trap," a novel, by Dolf Wyllarde, author of "The Story of Eden," who was one of the earlier contributors to the Yellow Book.

JOHN MURRAY will publish this spring a novel by Laurence Housmann, entitled "Sabrina Warham," which deals with country life on a lonely part of the English coast at a date some thirty years back.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. announce that they are obliged to postpone the publication of E. Maria Albanesi's novel of English upper-class life, "Susannah and One Other." It will not appear until March 28.

THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS, New York, have made arrangements for a special edition of "Hearts Courageous," by Hallie Erminie Rives, bound in cloth. They guarantee that no paper edition will be made of the book.

ALBERT VAN DAM'S posthumous book, to be published at once by Chapman & Hall, gives an interesting picture of the earlier years of the Third Republic in France and contains chapters dealing with figures like Gambetta, Thiers, and Jules Simon.

THOMAS WHITTAKER, New York, will publish this month "The American Church," by the Rev. Wm. J. Miller, author of the "American Church Dictionary and Cyclopædia." Mr. Whittaker has just issued a new work by the warden of Seabury Divinity School, the Rev. Dr. Butler, entitled "How Shall We Worship God?"

HINDS & NOBLE, New York, have secured control and will hereafter issue the following books heretofore brought out by the Indiana Publishing Company: "Rigdon's "English Grammar for Beginners," "English Grammar for Common Schools" and "Grammar of the English Sentence;" also, Lind's "Lessons in Physiology" and "Lessons in Physiology for High Schools."

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish John Oliver Hobbes's new novel, "The Vineyard," on April 1. They have in preparation the second volume of the memoirs of Juliette Lamber, ("Madame Adam,") which will be entitled "My Literary Life." It will be published in June, uniform with the first volume of the memoirs entitled "The Romance of My Childhood and Youth."

THE BROADWAY PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish on the 15th inst. a new volume by Colonel John A. Joyce, entitled "Shakespeare: Personal Recollections," with portraits and four facsimile letters. They will publish shortly a novel entitled "The Passing of the Old Adam and Eve," by Mary Ives Todd, dealing with the problem of divorce and having Florence as its background.

THE death of Mr. Woodford, for over a quarter of a century with the Revell Company, of Chicago, noted elsewhere in this issue, reminds us that the title of veteran may now be claimed by the following members of the trade, all connected with A. C. McClurg & Co.: L. C. Mitchell, of the class of 1856; F. B. Smith, 1862; George M. Millard, 1866; and F. C. Zimmerman and R. K. Smith, both in the 1868 class.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY are just sending to the press for a third edition Dr. Arthur J. Brown's "New Era in the Philippines." This edition has been revised and corrected in accordance with the latest and most authentic statistics obtainable. It is worth noting that the last report of the Taft Commission confirms many opinions that Dr. Brown formed as the result of his own investigation in the islands and elsewhere.

THE CENTURY COMPANY has in preparation a book by Emerson G. Taylor, entitled "A Daughter of Dale." The back-ground of the story is college life. It tells of the love story of Barbara, the "daughter of Dale." Two men, workers in the graduate school, love her. One is a clever young man, with wealth and position; the other a man with brains, a product of the West. The book will have a frontispiece by C. D. Williams.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS PRESS, of Baltimore, Md., has nearly ready for publication "Baltimore Lectures on Molecular Dynamics and the Wave Theory of Light," by Lord Kelvin, president of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, etc. The book is founded on A. S. Hathaway's stenographic report of twenty lectures delivered in Johns Hopkins University in October, 1884. They are followed by twelve appendices on allied subjects by Lord Kelvin.

A. S. BARNES & Co. were obliged to put a second edition of Joseph C. Lincoln's "Cap'n Eri" to press within three days after the book was published. Although the book has only been out a little over a week, its career promises to add another to the list of notable successes by new authors. "The Boss," Alfred Henry Lewis's successful novel, seems to be meeting with equal favor in the Antipodes, judging from the fact that a second Australian edition has just been arranged for.

RAND, MCNALLY & Co. announce a story entitled "Duchess of Few Clothes," by Philip Payne, author of "The Mills of Man," now in its third edition; "Everyday Essays," by Marion Foster Washburne, a book of genial, sane and uplifting observations upon simple, every-day life, with fifteen full-page drawings by Ruth M. Hallock; also, "The Promoters, a Novel Without a Woman," by William Hawley Smith, author of "The Evolution of Dodd," etc., a humorous yet impressive satire of modern business life.

THE SMART SET PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish shortly "Araby," a new novel by the Baroness von Hutten, which takes the name of its dominating character, "Araby," a young girl of modern culture and refinement, but with an intensity and directness of feelings and passions that is almost primeval; also, "The First American King," by George Gordon Hastings, in which the present tendencies toward imperialism, combinations of capital, etc., are worked out to conclusions similar to those worked out by Bellamy in his "Looking Backward."

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, announce a book entitled "The Holy City," which is the printed text of the drama of that name, by Thomas W. Broadhurst, now being produced in both New York and San Francisco; also, "Organized Labor and Capital," being the Bull lectures for 1904, a comprehensive view of the subject under the following titles: "The Past," by the Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden; "The Corporation," by Tallcott Williams; "The Union," by the Rev. George Hodges, and "The People," by the Rev. Dr. Francis G. Peabody.

THE COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY LIBRARY has arranged for a choice and instructive exhibit of rare manuscripts of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, to which a number of collectors have made valuable contributions. Among the more interesting is a collection of old exercises in penmanship, loaned by George A. Plimpton, of Ginn & Co., and the very large collection of devotional books loaned by John Pierpont Morgan. So large and fine a collection of manuscripts is rarely seen, and we should advise all interested to write to the librarian for a card of admission.

SCOTT-THAW CO., New York, will bring out this month: "A Book of Sun-Dial Mottoes," with essay by Alice Meynell, forming the second volume of the Garden Lovers' Series; "Herbert's Temple," reprinted from the first edition; "The American Negro and the Southern Question," by Booker T. Washington and E. P. Clark; "Essays on Literary Criticism," by E. Rod, Gustav Lanson, Camille Maucalair, W. M. Payne, Kuno Francke and Richard M. Meyer; also, "Art and Artists," a series of essays, by John La Farge, Russell W. J. Stillman, Kenyon Cox and Will H. Low.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have in preparation a special edition of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Prayers Written at Vailima," that have hitherto appeared only in his collected works or in fragmentary unauthorized versions. The volume will contain a brief introduction by Mrs. Stevenson, explanatory of the circumstances under which the prayers were written, and will be issued in a style suggesting the "Aes Triplex" and the "Christmas Sermon," recently published. They have also well under way the third and fourth volumes of the new edition of Crowe and Cavalcaselle's "History of Painting in Italy."

A. WESSELS COMPANY have in press a book on "New England in Letters," by Rufus Rockwell Wilson, author of "Rambles in Colonial Byways," etc., who in a series of pilgrimages describes the noteworthy literary landmarks in the New England States; "Working with the People," by Charles Sprague Smith, founder and managing director of The People's Institute, which will interest those studying the present-day social problem of our large cities; also, a revised edition of Grant Allen's "Guide to Paris," in which special attention will be given to the alterations made in the museums and other points of interest.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in press a book by Wolf von Schierbrand, dealing with the Russia of to-day, chiefly from several points of view which have not so far received the attention to which they seem entitled. These are, among others, the finances, showing that the country is on the brink of national bankruptcy; the agricultural conditions, demonstrating the exhaustion of Russia's famous "black-earth belt;" the complete downfall of Russia's industry, mainly the hothouse product of M. Witte's export policy; the "mir" and the "zemstvo." Mr. von Schierbrand years ago made an extensive trip through Russia, European and Asiatic, and has since made that country one of his special studies.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. have in preparation a new book by Booker T. Washington, "Working with the Hands," the publication of which has been delayed some time; "Basketry," with over two hundred and fifty colored illustrations and photographs, by Professor Otis T. Mason, an authority on Indian crafts; "Social Games and Pastimes," by Mrs. Burton Kingsland, uniform with the same author's "Book of Good Manners" and "Book of Weddings;" "Poems That Every Child Should Know," edited by Miss Mary E. Burt, with illustrations and decorations by Miss Blanche Ostertag; and "The Barrier," a new novel by Allen French. Following the success of Frank M. Chapman's "Color Key to North American Birds," this spring, a companion volume will be issued with eight hundred illustrations, entitled "A Color Key to American Birds' Eggs."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish on the 16th inst. the "Memoirs of Henry Villard, Journalist and Financier," in which are recounted frankly the achievements, failures and successive fluctuations of fortune of one of the most interesting personalities of his time, illustrated with portraits and maps; "The Horse-Leech's Daughters," a novel by Margaret D. Jackson, already described in these columns; a new edition of "The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," by Dr. Hannis Taylor; Dr. Rolfe's "Satchel Guide for the Vacation Tourist in Europe," revised to 1904; "A Niece of Snapshot Harry's;" "A Treasure of the Redwoods," and "Trent's Trust," three further volumes in the Riverside edition of Bret Harte's complete works; also, an enlarged edition of William Hand Browne's monograph on "Maryland," in the American Commonwealths series, with map and index.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready a new edition of Wirt Gerrare's work on "Greater Russia;" also, an elaborate work on "The Opening of the Mississippi," by Frederic Austin Ogg, written largely from original sources. They will publish shortly "Problems of the Present South," a discussion of certain of the educational, industrial and political issues in the Southern States by Edgar Gardner Murphy; "The History of American Music," by Louis C. Elson, fully illustrated; a "Life of Dante Gabriel Rossetti," by Arthur Christopher Benson, a new volume in the English Men of Letters series; also, Palgrave's famous "Golden Treasury of Songs and Lyrics," in Macmillan's Pocket Classics series. Clifton Johnson's "Old-Time Schools and School-Books," which will be fully illustrated with the author's capital pictures, will be ready before Easter; and Lafcadio Hearn's new book on Japan will also appear within a few weeks.

THE Baron von Biedermann, 33 Albrechtsstr., Steglitz, near Berlin, Germany, is offering the library of the well-known literary scholar, the late Geheimrath Dr. Gustav Woldemar Baron von Biedermann, noted specially for his study of Goethe. The collection comprises about 5000 works, approximating 10,000 volumes, together with art portfolios, maps and clippings. Besides the very large and, in many respects, unique collection of first editions of Goethe's works, autographs, etc., more or less intimately connected with Germany's great poet, the library is particularly strong in the departments of encyclopædias, science in general, philosophy and religion, topography and ethnology, languages, literature, art, history, law and Saxonica. The autographs include twenty Goethe manuscripts, three of which are still unpublished. The library will be sold in divisions or as a whole. Catalogues may be obtained of Bruno Hessling, 64 East Twelfth Street, New York.

"The Cleverest Book of the Year"

Now Ready

"THE WOODHOUSE CORRESPONDENCE"

By GEORGE W. E. RUSSELL and EDITH SICHEL

"Studies in Idiosyncrasy" these letters are called by the authors. They are the cleverest, wittiest and at the same time keenest studies that we have seen in a long time. Selfishness is the prevailing idiosyncrasy, various forms of which, not unknown in polite society, such as the selfishness of the hypochondriac, of the artistic temperament, of the strong-minded person, are set forth by the unconscious correspondents in a manner that is at once delightfully naive and irresistibly funny.

This is an excellent book to counteract a fit of the blues.

"The cleverest book of the year, and of many years. The authors have given us perfect pictures of selfishness and conceit, with just enough of purer elements to take away the bitter taste. It is a real literary achievement."

—The British Weekly.

"Our brief outline gives but an inadequate impression of the remarkable and cruel cleverness with which various phases of fastidious egotism, valetudinarianism, stinginess, preciosity and snobbery are hit off."

—The Spectator

Cloth, 12mo, $1.25. For Sale Everywhere.

THE NEW WEBSTER—HAVE YOU HEARD OF IT?

Webster's Imperial Dictionary

NEW FROM A TO Z — RESET FROM NEW TYPE
NEW PLATES — THOUSANDS OF NEW WORDS

Is the Only New Complete Dictionary of the English Language Issued in Eleven Years

One single page has 36 words that are not in the "International," another single galley not yet made up, and will not make a full page, has 24 more such words.

That there may be no misunderstanding as to what Webster's Imperial Dictionary is, the publisher desires to say that it is the genuine Noah Webster's Dictionary entirely re-edited, authoritatively revised, added to, and brought to date in every particular. It is the only dictionary sold on a guarantee. If, as a work of reference, it is not better than any previous Webster we will refund whatever you pay us for it. We know it will be the best dictionary published and you can purchase it in safety on this guarantee.

An Entirely New WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY that Defines More Words than Any Previous Webster. Webster's "International," its Predecessor, is Now About 14 Years Old, and, as a Consequence, Quite Out of Date

Competent authorities claim that a Dictionary should be revised every seven years. Double that time has passed since Webster's "International" was first copyrighted, so that the need for a new Webster, the Greatest of ALL Dictionaries, is not only apparent, but pressing. In June, 1904, Webster's "Imperial" Dictionary, the latest authoritative revision of the genuine, authentic Webster will be published. Its retail price will be about one-half of the former Webster prices, and the net price about one-third the present wholesale figure.

This Dictionary is so new that you have to look in only one place for a word, and that is in its alphabetical order. It is absolutely new, and has no supplement—because it needs none. The entire work is complete, unabridged and up-to-date in every particular.

It will be issued in June, 1904. Write now for full detailed information in printed form to GEO. W. OGILVIE, Publisher, 181 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

Annual American Catalogue

CUMULATED, 1900–1903

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, including in one alphabet a record of the books published in the four years, 1900, 1901, 1902, and 1903, will be ready shortly, and we invite your subscription for this important trade and library "help." This work, following the general plan of cumulation adopted by The Publishers' Weekly, gives entries by author, by title, by subject, and by series, including date of publication and price, and indication whether or not the book is included in the American Publishers' Association net schedule. Thus a book may be reached at one glance, from almost any point of information which a customer may have in mind.

It is generally recognized by the trade that this work is the most satisfactory in plan of any system yet devised. It gives the cheap reprints in a separate division, arranged practically by publishers' names, and embraces a directory of publishers whose books are included in the Catalogue, with street addresses. The price for this four-year catalogue is $4 in cloth.

The ANNUAL ENGLISH CATALOGUE, for which we have the American market, is a useful complement to this volume, and can be had in cloth for $1.50, or bound with the ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE in one volume, cloth, $5.00 net.
